CONFIDENT OF GETTING FULL SUM AIMED AT

Nearly $950 Raised for Y.M.C.A. in Campaign.

OTHER TEAMS TO REPORT.

Medicine '17 Leads Classes of the University, with $93 to Its Credit.

As a result of further canvassing undertaken by the teams working in the McGill Y. M. C. A. whirlwind financial campaign yesterday, it is considered as highly probable that when the final returns come in, the full $1,000 which the teams set out to obtain in their three days' canvass will have been secured. Those in direction of the campaign expressed satisfaction when it was learned last evening that the total returns up to that hour reached the sum of $947.75, with only partial reports from many of the classes. It was freely stated that the sum aimed at, namely $1,000, would be over-subscribed when all the captains report the result of their canvass.

In the race between the different classes and faculties, Fifth year Medicine, as "Dad" Lamb predicted at the dinner which opened the campaign, still holds the lead with the sum of $93 to its credit. First year Arts is in second place with $86, while Fourth year Science has done good work in securing $82 for the coffers of the University Y. M. C. A. Medicine is only thirty dollars ahead of Arts in the aggregate of subscriptions, but it is likely that this lead will be increased as a result of the reports from further teams. If the teaching staff were in the race for aggregate standing they would be in first place with $165.50, being $65.50 ahead of the students of the Faculty of Applied Science. The Faculty of Law, with a registration in the neighborhood of fifty, has shown up very well, with a total subscription of $56.50, an average of more than one dollar a student.

In some of the classes there will be further canvassing to-day by captains and others who have been unable to reach the men on their lists.

The standing up to last night was as follows:—

THE UNIVERSITY LODGE.

University Lodge, A. F. and M. will hold its regular meeting in the Masonic Temple, 349 Dorchester St. West, on Saturday, November 11th, at 8 p.m. All members of the University who are Masons are cordially invited to attend.

DR. OERTEL TO SPEAK.

Taking as his subject "The Relationship of Embryology to Pathology," Dr. Horst Oertel, pathologist of the Royal Victoria Hospital, will address the Medical Society this evening in the assembly room of the New Medical Building. A good programme is being arranged for the evening with musical numbers, and lightning sketching by E. Tremble, Med. '20. Case reports will also be presented.

R. V. C. '19 MEETING.

There will be a meeting of R. V. C. '19 on Friday, Nov. 10th, at 1 p.m., in the Latin Room, for the purpose of electing debaters.

WON PROMOTION IN FIELD.

LIEUT. "BERT" SARGENT.

One of the firm friends of Lieut. Walter H. Gordon, Arts '09, recently killed in action, was Lieut. "Bert" Sargent, the celebrated Senior McGill hockey player, who drilled with him in the McGill C. O. T. C., enlisted with him as a gunner in the 21st Battery of Artillery, and won his commission with him on the field. Lieut. Sargent is now back at the front serving his guns.

LITERARY SOCIETY MEETING TO-NIGHT

An Interesting Debate and Also a General Discussion Will be Held.

It is hoped a very interesting and enjoyable meeting of the McGill Literary and Debating Society will be held this evening at Strathcona Hall at 8.15 p.m. The proposition to be discussed is, "Resolved, that the Government of Ontario is morally justified in the course which it has pursued with regard to the French schools." The resolution will be moved by R. J. Clarke, '17, and will be seconded by G. W. Bourke, '17. The above gentlemen are to be directly opposed by Messrs. Clark and Benjamin. Inasmuch as these men have had experience as public speakers, the executive feel sure that things will be very lively, and that these men will be the cause of bringing about a general discussion. The executive have learned that there are many good speakers in the freshmen years of all faculties who will welcome this opportunity of expressing their views. Among the older members who are sure to take part in this discussion are V. S. Green, '18; L. O. Klineberg, '19; and B. Josephs, '19. The "Literary" exists for all faculties, and not only for the Faculty of Arts. The executive positions are filled by men from Medicine, Arts, and Science. All students of the University who have paid their universal fee of $10 are members of the Literary Society. It is interesting to notice that half the freshmen class in Arts has promised to attend. Will the upper classes do as well?

There will be refreshments after the meeting, and every one is assured of an enjoyable time.

WINS FIELDWORK PRIZE.

An announcement regarding the examination which was held at the Third Year Summer Survey School at St. Anne has been made by the Faculty of Applied Science. The notice which was posted yesterday read as follows: "The J. M. McCarthy Fieldwork prize ($12) has this session been awarded to Mr. H. M. Roscoe."

FOR AND AGAINST COLLEGE FOOTBALL.

When experts disagree, who shall decide?

Here are two widely diverging opinions on college football as played to-day:

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 10.—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, the famous surgeon of Rochester, Minn., regarded by many as the most distinguished of all American surgeons, declared in an interview that football and baseball were the best of American sports. "College football is one of the best sports you could provide for the athletic development of young men," said Dr. Mayo. "The well-rounded-out life needs athletic exercise, and I think that by their attention to athletics the big colleges, with their careful training systems, are doing great good."

Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 10.—Fay Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, in discussion the question of whether the university shall give up Rugby football and return to the American game, said: "American football is the greatest menace to intercollegiate athletics. It is a coach's game, and the by-products that go with him—professionalism, anything for victory, secret practice—make the sport a power for harm."

LT. PECHKOFF DESCRIBES A STIFF CHANGE

Spoke to Fourth Year Class in Military Engineering.

WITH FOREIGN LEGION.

Has Won Highest Honours in the French Army, and Incidentally Lost an Arm.

Students in the fourth year class of Military Engineering, were yesterday addressed by a most distinguished officer of the French Legion, Sir Stopford Brunton, who regularly lectures in military engineering, was successful in his endeavours to have Lieut. Zinov' Pechkoff, address the class on the present methods of fighting at the front. Belonging to one of the noblest and oldest families of Russia, a graduate of one of the great Russian military schools, a retired officer of the Russian army, and having been through the fighting in the Somme area less than two months ago, Lieut. Pechkoff was in a position to describe with accuracy, modern fighting.

When war broke out, Lieut. Pechkoff was in Italy. To get back to Russia was an almost impossible task, so without delay he took steps to join a unit. Owing to his wonderful training Lieut. Pechkoff was readily accepted in the French army, and on the third day of the war he enlisted with the Foreign Legion of the French Army. He remained continually with this famous regiment, and passed through all the engagements up to the time he was wounded. Describing the battle of Neuville-Saint-Vaast, in which he was so severely wounded by the machine gun fire of the Germans that it was necessary to amputate his right arm, Lieut. Pechkoff gave a most graphic description of the fighting on that occasion, in his very modest and unassuming, though effective manner.

"On May 9th," Lieut. Pechkoff said, "My regiment was given orders to advance over a front of ten miles. For four days previous the German trenches were intensely bombarded by our guns. For sixteen hours this incessant bombardment continued. It is a very nice symphony, I can assure you," the speaker said. "It sounds just as if one were hearing a thousand Vesuviuses or volcanoes in eruption. At six in the morning, or four hours before the time set for the attack, we were moved from the village to the front line trenches. The trenches were almost completely demolished by cannon fire, and thus very little protection was afforded to the withering fire kept up by the Germans. In order to protect themselves from the fire of the Germans," Lieut. Pechkoff said, "they had to dig themselves in up to the waist. In this manner they were able to keep from the view of the Germans, and at the same time protect themselves from their fire. For four hours they remained in this position, and then the time to advance came. Exactly at 10 o'clock the cannonading stopped. The perfect stillness was simply appalling. Precisely at this time a bugle blew, and all knew that this was the time to advance. Over the front of ten miles, where the advance was to take place, the men came out of their individual dug-outs, and extended to four paces interval. Four lines of men, one behind the other, took part. Implicit instructions had been given as to what each was to do, and now all there remained was to do it. Those in the second line had white badges pinned on their backs, so that the artillery observers could watch the progress made. In this manner they were able to inform the artillery, which gradually lengthened its fire, so as to cover the advance, but at the same time not shell their own men. It was the duty of Lieut. Pechkoff to advance to the fourth line of German trenches. When about 30 yards away it was plain that they could not stand and advance against the fire of the Germans. Located in one section of the German lines at this point was a machine gun which was playing great havoc with the lives of the men. Accordingly Lieut. Pechkoff sent an N.C.O. to the extreme left of his men with the order that they lie down. He then explained that the French have a method of advancing on all fours. This is done by putting the sling of the rifle in the mouth so that the rifle balances, and then to crawl over the ground. Immediately in front of the fourth line of German trenches was high grass and flowers. He and his men were successful in taking the trench, and in capturing the offending machine gun. Just before reaching the trench, however, Lieut. Pechkoff had his right arm shot through by bullets from the German machine gun. Even though he could not use it still he fought on. "One could not stop now," Lieut. Pechkoff said, "and so I carried my rifle with my left hand." For the capture of the German machine gun Lieut. Pechkoff was awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French Government. Previous to this Lieut. Pechkoff was awarded the Medaille Militaire for capturing a German machine gun under very adverse conditions, and on account of the great bravery he had shown. The Russian Government have also conferred upon him the Russian Order of St. George. These three comprise the highest military honours that can be conferred upon anyone.

Ageing and Blending

ROSE QUESNEL

Native Canadian Tobacco

We have seen in our previous advertisements that, from the selection and first planting of the seed to the ultimate packing of the cured plant, it is a constant solicitude to the planter.

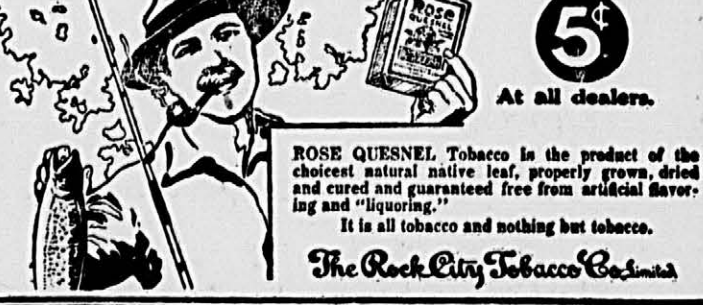

The tobacco, packed in bundles arrives at our warehouses where the stock is inspected, and, if the leaf appears to be well cured and of good quality it is "passed." Then the "hands" are packed upon each other in regular rows in large casks where they are compressed in a very solid mass and the casks stored in our cellars where the tobacco ages for two years. It is the slow, sure way of perfectly maturing tobacco in wooden casks which gives it that mellowed smoothness you taste in every pipeful of Rose Quesnel.

When perfectly aged the Quesnel Tobacco and Rose Tobacco, the two most fragrant and aromatic varieties of tobacco grown in Canada are blended by experts, in scientific proportions, the result of years of research and experiment, and it is then ready to be cut and packed for the trade.

ROSE QUESNEL Smoking Tobacco

is an ideal blend of native pipe tobacco. You cannot get greater tobacco satisfaction than ROSE QUESNEL will give you; it is free from sting or bite, does not dry or parch the mouth and it is cool, sweet, mild and fragrant.

ROSE QUESNEL Tobacco is the product of the choicest natural native leaf, properly grown, dried and cured and guaranteed free from artificial flavoring and "liquoring."

It is all tobacco and nothing but tobacco.

THE LITERARY AND DEBATING SOCIETY.

The first of a series of discussions on subjects of national interest will be held by the University Debating Society to-night, at 8.15, in Strathcona Hall. The Bi-lingual question has been chosen because of the interest aroused by the recent decision of the Privy Council. In a University, so cosmopolitan in character as McGill, there are many different views on this subject. The object of to-night's meeting is to enable students to understand the different phases of this question.

Every University student ought to be a broad-minded man—one who knows the pros and cons of the more important public questions of his day. He must be willing to listen to any argument, separate the true from the false, and in the end form a sane opinion upon the subject. It is to such a man that the Society makes its strongest appeal. To-night an opportunity will be given to everyone to listen to the presentation of both sides of this important subject by prominent undergraduates, and to take part in the general discussion. By carefully considering the words of each speaker, noting his strong and weak points, a student will be able to give himself valuable mental training. The Society is a student's society. The Executive, in commencing the work of the year, are influenced by the strong belief that the "Literary and Debating" Society will be welcomed by a large section of the student body who are interested in the great practical questions of the day.

The Daily cannot too strongly recommend that every underclassman should avail himself of the splendid training offered by the Literary and Debating Society. The year before the war McGill was forced to admit that out of her thousand students she did not possess two of Intercollegiate Debating calibre, and to allow all her debates to go by default to her opponents. Such a course of action, unavoidable at the time, lowered the esteem with which the name of McGill is thought of in the Universities of Canada. The same thing will undoubtedly happen after the war if McGill does not use her time to good advantage. It takes a long time to make an Intercollegiate debater. This year the Debating Society must be on the lookout for latent talent among her underclassmen. Promising debaters must be given the best possible training in order that they may carry McGill's colours to victory. But it is impossible for the Society to find such men if the underclassmen do not take a part in the informal discussions, one of which will be held to-night. Underclassmen, in a few months the men who are at the head of student activities will leave the University, and their responsibilities will fall upon your shoulders. The honour of McGill demands that you should be well prepared worthily to discharge them. No matter what position you may occupy in college life, you will often be called upon to express your opinion. Often a great deal may depend upon the successful presentation of your ideas to your fellowmen. The Literary and Debating Society aims to give a training along these lines, so that when the time comes the students will be prepared to take their places in the different societies without the loss of time and prestige which invariably follows lack of self-expression.

McGill wants her sons to be intelligent, broad-minded citizens. If you are neglecting this side of your college life, you are missing something essential to true success.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The popular tea room caters to the public again to-day, and with the same worthy object in view as last Monday—the Y. M. C. A. The patronage has been increasing as the students become better acquainted with the excellent food furnished, and the attractive way in which it is served. Those who overlooked contributing to the canvassers in the campaign just closed, or for some other reason did not give have another opportunity of swelling the funds in a small way this afternoon. Come all ye men-about-college and tear yourselves away from two bits, receiving in exchange toast, cake and coffee.

The splendid response to the appeal of the Y. M. C. A. for funds to carry on the overseas work has proven that the students of McGill are in sympathy with the work which the "Y" is doing for the men at the front. While complete returns have not been made yet, the amount so far collected, together with what it is estimated will come in, indicates that there will be at least an average of one dollar for every student. The amount aimed at, namely, one thousand dollars, will certainly be reached, and in fact oversubscribed. Those who had the work of collecting in hand went about it in an energetic manner, as is evidenced by the results attained. They report that everyone gave in as generous a manner as he possibly could, and many stretched a point in order to help along the work of the overseas branch. It all goes to prove that the people are quick to recognize a "good thing" and only too willing to give it every possible assistance.

HARVARD PREPARING FOR PRINCETON GAME

Victory Over Virginia Has Increased Confidence of Team.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Harvard football team went through a hard scrimmage on Wednesday afternoon, with a great deal of dash. The men were not at all off form as a result of their victory over Virginia, but seemed to have increased confidence. The scrimmage in itself was not a long one, but in the short time Team A succeeded in scoring one touchdown, while the best Team B could do was a goal from the field by R. H. Bond, '19. This was a very fine goal from the 37-yard line.

Captain H. H. Dadmun, '17, was back in the lineup at his old position of left guard, after a prolonged rest. In fact, all the regulars who were excused from the Virginia game were back in the line-up, with the exception of Quarterback W. F. Robinson, '18, and Ralph Horween, '18, who was down on the field, but did not get into the scrimmage.

Moseley Taylor, '18, after several weeks' absence from active playing, was given an opportunity at centre, when he was sent in for J. C. Harris, '17, for a few minutes. His return to the game should insure a good substitute centre, and in fact Harris will have to work hard to keep his position. H. W. Minot, '17, was in Horween's place in the backfield, with T. C. Thacher, '18, and E. L. Casey, '19, and W. J. Murray, '18, again was in charge of the team.

Team B put up a strong battle against the regulars, and at one time got within 10 yards of the goal line, but lost the ball on downs. Team A then punted out to A. W. Gardner, '18, who made a fair catch, after which Bond put the ball over the goal posts. The regulars, however, came right back and drove down the field for a touchdown by Casey just before the end of the practice.

NEWSPAPERS ARE BARRED.

A bulletin of the Press Censor says: Regulations have been issued in the United Kingdom relative to the despatch of printed matter from that country, these regulations having been designed to prevent the despatch of secret messages to enemy aliens under cover of printed papers and not for the purpose of detaining information openly published in the United Kingdom.

The Authorities feared that newspapers, etc., might be used by persons in the United Kingdom as a means of concealment for information which they may desire to communicate to the enemy.

These regulations, which are now in effect, apply to printed matter despatched from the United Kingdom to: (a) All European countries except France, Russia, Italy, and the part of Belgium not occupied by Germany; (b) All parts of Africa and America except British, French, Italian or Belgian possessions;

(c) British and allied subjects interned in enemy countries.

These regulations contain the following provisions:—

(1) Printed matter, i.e., newspapers, magazines, books and other printed publications (other than trade circulars) will not be sent forward unless posted direct from the office of publishers or news agents who have obtained permission from the War Office for this purpose.

(2) Persons desiring to send printed matter should, therefore, give their orders for execution to publishers or news agents who have obtained such permission.

(3) Publishers or news agents who desire to obtain permission to despatch printed matter, and who have not already obtained it under the existing regulations, should communicate with the War Office, stating whether they have existing orders for the despatch of printed matter to the countries concerned and the average quantity which they export weekly under these orders.

(4) Second-hand books despatched by dealers through the post are excluded from the scope of the regulations. They should be despatched in the ordinary way, even by firms who are in possession of a general permit, the name and address of the despatching firm being clearly given upon the cover of each packet. Such packets are subject to delay at the discretion of the Censor. Second-hand books despatched by persons other than dealers will not be forwarded.

(5) Printed publications addressed to British subjects interned in neutral countries are excluded from the scope of regulations. Such publications can, however, only be sent by printed papers post.

(6) From the 1st July, stamp collections, sheets or cards of stamps, stamp samples, etc., will not be forwarded to foreign countries (with the exceptions above indicated) unless despatched by dealers who have obtained permission from the War Office.

(7) No information can be given as to the disposal of packets stopped under these regulations.

In connection with the above quoted regulations in effect in the United Kingdom, it is not proposed by His Majesty's Government to interfere in any way with books, magazines, etc., etc., SENT FROM CANADA TO CANADIAN PRISONERS OF WAR IN GERMANY.

2. The attention of His Majesty's Consul General at Rotterdam, Holland, has been drawn to certain rumours regarding the treatment meted out to British escaped prisoners of War from Germany at his Consulate General in comparison to that meted out to similar prisoners of French and Russian nationality by their respective Consuls.

The Consul General has endeavored to trace these rumours to their source and thinks that in view of the fact that of the last four British prisoners who escaped three were Canadians, it would seem fairly evident that this was a rumour engineered by the Germans with a view, if possible, of spreading dissatisfaction in the Dominion.

He thinks that under the circumstances it might be desirable to have the facts published in the press in order to counteract in advance any possible German lies which may be spread later on through Wolff or similar agencies.

Mr. Maxse, the Consul General, explains that British prisoners of war arriving in Holland are invariably treated with the very utmost kindness and consideration by the Dutch frontier authorities, both military and civil. They are sent down to the Consulate General in charge of a Dutch Mareschause (gendarme). On arrival at the Consulate General they are supplied with every reasonable comfort. They receive new clothing, underclothing, boots, etc., if required. They are given room in the Sea-men's Home, and plenty of good nourishing food. Tobacco, etc., and pocket money is also given them. Their treatment at the home is assimilated to that of the interned members of the British Naval Brigade who are now living there and working at the Consulate General.

The Consulate General and all the members of his staff, including the Dutch officials and clerks, are most sympathetic in their treatment of these men, and endeavour by all means in their power to render their stay at Rotterdam pleasant and comfortable. They are invariably shipped over to the United Kingdom by the first opportunity, and always in British boats if such are available.

About thirty escaped British prisoners of war have passed through the office of the Consul General at Rotterdam during the progress of hostilities, and in every case they have seemed most grateful for the attention and care bestowed upon them.

3. Statements, originated probably by the enemy propagandists, have been widely circulated in the United States, and republished by certain papers in Canada, stating that under the conscription law of the United Kingdom, refugees from Poland and Russia, residing in England and Scotland, who refuse to enlist, are liable to be deported. The undersigned has made inquiries by cable, and is able to state on the highest authority that refugees from Poland and Russia in the United Kingdom who do not enlist are not liable to deportation.

SPECIAL RATES TO STUDENTS. STUDIOS, 79 UNION AVENUE.

The Royal Military College of Canada.

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government Institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact, it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst. The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, sent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

While the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive a practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education. The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English. The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition. Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree. The length of the course is three years in three terms of six months each. The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras is about $500. The annual competitive examination for admission to the college, takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military districts. For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

COLLEGE CORPS, THE 196TH. HAS ITS OWN PAPER

Major R. W. Brock Gives Credit for Its Formation to Students of the West.

ORIGIN OF BATTALION.

'Wub' Is Name of Latest College Battalion Paper.

"Wub," the official organ of the Western Universities Battalion, the 196th Overseas, is the latest addition to military publications. Copies of the first issue show that for editors, the university boys have something of the punch which goes with college days. It is a twelve-page, four-column publication, well illustrated, and with numerous feature articles which do not bear the touch of amateurish editing. Major R. W. Brock, dean of the Faculty of Science of the University of British Columbia, and second in command of the 196th, contributes a sketch of the history of the organization of the battalion.

"The battalion owes its inception," says Major Brock, "to a student movement. Many students had enlisted amongst various units, and their identity as western university men lost. Many other students felt that they, too, must offer their services to their country, and that it would be better in every sense of the word if they were in an organization of their own."

Major Brock then goes on to detail the preliminary steps taken by the representatives of the four western provincial universities to organize the battalion, which was authorized on February 14, 1916, and is, to quote Major Brock, "the first, and up to the present, the only university battalion raised in this country."

Of University Type.

The success of the movement to form a university battalion, may be judged from the results. Major Brock says:

"In personnel the battalion is what it was hoped and intended that it should be. It is a battalion of men of the university type. Of the rank and file, 400 are university students, law students or senior high school students; 100 are accountants, cashiers, bank clerks, mostly matriculants, some of them are college men; five are university professors or teachers; 83 are high school or public school teachers; five are lawyers, among whom are to be found King's Counsellors; fifteen are civil, mechanical or electrical engineers; fifteen are clergymen; seven newspapermen; six bank managers; seven merchants, while the remainder represents types of school-trained farmers, dairymen, horticulturists, with a scattering of other arts and professions as well as specialized business callings. More than 62 per cent. are Canadian born, and the remainder are almost exclusively British born."

Its Purpose Confessed.

To introduce the new organ, the editor, under the caption, "Yes, Yes, 'Wub,'" addressed more to the battalion than to the public, announces: "Not to be outdone by the daily, weekly or fireside press of the country, we also claim a purpose. It is to get out a newspaper without losing money, and this one might whisper, is the main purpose of all newspapers that survive more than three issues." The introductory editorial continues: "Remember, always, that the battalion newspaper is a link between those of us who have joined the Western Universities Battalion, and the folks back home. Keep it bright and cheerful. Send in all the funny little incidents that happen, and if they don't happen, invent them. Invention is a great thing if not carried too far." The concluding remarks are somewhat apt. "It has more than a thousand editors, so editors do your duty. Remember 'Our Purposes.' At ten cents a copy you can figure out for yourself how many copies must be sold to make expenses." This last is by way of reference to the fact that the journal is unique in not having any advertising patronage.

One amusing squib, on that topic of such live interest with every overseas battalion in training, the date of their departure for the front, is given with apologies to Walt Mason:

Winter Weather Felt.

"I can not bear those folks who say that we're about to go away; Tarbolton says, and he sure knows, that we must winter midst the snows; the C. M. S. has quite a notion we shall never cross the ocean; and Eason has it not so bad that we shall go to Trinidad; then Parker thinks to pull one's leg and says we go to Winnipeg; and lots of others know by chance that we shall never get to France; if I believed the stories hazy I am sure I should go crazy; but if one would wish to learn all, Gaynor'll get it from the Colonel."

P. P. C. L. I. MAN BACK.

Lieut. J. Fred Mather, who has returned from England on sick leave, left as a private with the First McGill Company in June, 1915, which was sent to reinforce the Princess Patricia's at the front. He spent about nine months in the trenches, and was blown up by a German mortar at Sanctuary Wood in May of this year, and suffered a fracture of the thigh.

R. V. C. BASKETBALL.

There will be a basketball practice on Saturday at 12 p.m., between the Seniors and Freshies. Every member of these two teams is asked to turn out.

TEA ROOM.

Don't forget that the tea room in Strathcona Hall will be open again this afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6. Those in charge will be: K. McCloskey, I. Reid, C. Rorke, E. Ross, L. Roston, F. Novick, M. Olding, J. Reid, G. Rhodes, R. Rogers, D. Salmom, M. Reeve, I. Robertson, R. Salmom, M. Lounsbury, A. Stafford, F. Salmom, J. Savage, M. Garrow, M. Macnaughton, M. McLl-mont, E. Borden, E. Cains.

MEETING TO OPEN A WEEK OF PRAYER.

On Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Gifford, of the Wesleyan Theological College, will address a combined meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. in Strathcona Hall. Sunday will mark the beginning of a universal week of prayer for all the universities of North America, and as McGill has been the custom at McGill of this commencement will take the form of a short talk by one of the city's prominent clergymen. The bible classes will adjourn in order that the members may be present at this meeting, and it is hoped that a large number of students will take advantage of this chance to hear Dr. Gifford.

OTTAWA MAY PLAY MCGILL A SERIES

Basketball Club Meets in the Union—Harry Pitts Elected President.

The start of basketball activities was made yesterday, when a largely attended meeting was held in the Union for the purpose of electing officers for the year, and making plans as to the hours of practice. About 15 were present. J. E. McLeod took the chair in the absence of an executive officer. The first business was the election of officers. H. H. Pitts, of Med. '18, was chosen to the position of president. The other officers chosen were: Honorary President—A. S. Lamb, Med. '17.

Vice-President—R. E. Heartz, Sci. '17.
Sec.-Treas.—Loughery, Med. '18.
Committee man—G. A. Upham, Med. '19.
Manager—J. E. McLeod, Sci. '17.
Freshman Representative—R. MacGregor.

The question of the advisability of playing a home and home series with the Ottawa "Y" was taken up and discussed. The opinion of those present was that the games should be arranged if at all possible to come to an agreement with the Ottawas. It was, however, decided to leave the question in the hands of the executive for final decision. Practice hours were discussed. There is expected to be some difficulty in arranging hours that everyone will be able to take advantage of, and the meeting decided to empower the executive to attend to that matter.

No steps have been as yet taken toward the re-organization of the Interprovincial League, this year, but it is understood that all the clubs in the league last year want to play again this year except the Westmount "Y." There will be no difficulty in securing another team to fill its place, however. If the McGill team decides to enter the Interprovincial this year practices will start within the next week or so. In the meantime several of last year's men have been attending gym, regularly, and are already in great shape to start the season.

A LAME DUCKS' CLUB AT ILLINOIS UNIV.

Students "Reported" in Some Classes Are Made to Join.

Students who are "reported" in Chemistry classes at the University of Illinois have been made to join the Lame Ducks' Club. The Daily Illini has the following comment to make. Enter waddling, quacking and hardy feathered out, the newest campus organization, the Lame Ducks.

Lame Ducks can scarcely be called an honorary organization. Neither is it exclusive, for membership is compulsory and scarcely creditable. In short, all the really good students don't belong. And here's why: Lame Ducks, organized at the suggestion—and that's a mild word in this case—of Dr. H. G. Deming, associate in chemistry, has for its members only those students who were reported in Chemistry 1 and 1b.

Because he had more license to be reported in the subject than anyone else, E. J. Skelly, of Davenport, Iowa, has been elected president of the new organization, and Miss Weeter, a freshman, has been elected secretary. Reports did not state why Miss Weeter was elected.

The club will meet at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening in 111 Chemistry Building. Doctor Deming will provide the entertainment and promises that it will be of such a nature that by the close of the semester the club will be disbanded for want of members.

ELECTED TO COMMITTEE.

Cedric E. M. Tuohy, Med. '18, and George D. Little, Med. '20, have been returned by acclamation as Medical representatives to the Union House Committee. Their nominations were the only two received for the offices which have been vacant since the commencement of the session through failure of students of the Faculty to place any men in the field.

MEDICINE FOOTBALL TEAM.

Rev. John D. Morrow, the athletic parson, who used to clean up everything in sight when he ran in the sprints for McGill in his undergraduate days at the University, has evidently lost some of his ability as a runner since being ordained. At a sporting meet held in St. John, N.B., a few days ago, in which city Rev. Mr. Morrow is now stationed as chaplain of the 180th Sportsman's Battalion, he was defeated in the short distance race by a rank outsider.

DEVELOPMENT OF MUSIC FOR SOLO VIOLIN

Lecture by Dr. Perrin at the Conservatorium.

MUSICALLY ILLUSTRATED.

Covered a Period of Some Three Hundred Years in History of Violin Music.

Last evening an interesting lecture on "The Development of Musical Literature for Solo Violin," was given by Dr. Perrin of the Conservatorium, to a large audience, in the Conservatorium. As Dr. Perrin said, it would require a half dozen lectures to deal with the subject in a proper manner and to cover completely the time over which this development extended.

Up to the end of the first quarter of the 17th century music was primarily of the vocal order, although gradually it became usual for the composers of that period to put after the titles of their works "suitable for voices or viols." This was the case with the works of the Italian, Gabrieli (about 1600). The first branching out from the recognized order came from a secular source—the dance, although here again song and dance continued to be associated long after the introduction of purely instrumental music, based on the dance forms. Another reason for this advance was the improvement in the manufacture of musical instruments, and it is interesting to note the gradual changes introduced in the form and construction of these sources of sound.

Musical literature for the violin has progressed along three lines of thought. The first is that of the contrapuntal order, but the idea of one instrument predominating over the others is foreign to this order, which prevails in the works of string quartets, and in fact in nearly all compositions written by those who from Bach onwards are looked upon as the great classic writers of instrumental music. "This particular path," said Dr. Perrin, "has been widened alike from a contrapuntal as well as a harmonic point of view, restrictions and barriers have been removed, and this greater freedom has resulted in compositions which make a stronger appeal than formerly."

The second path followed was one in direct opposition to the first, and makes for unmistakably clear and simple rhythm, and an unobscured melody. This obtains in compositions of the Aria and the dance type.

The third path has been through the flowery regions of virtuosity, the only limit being the performer's skill as an executant, and it is to be noted that one and the same person. The earliest known solo piece for the violin was a "Romanesca," by Marini, about 1620, which is described as uninteresting and musically poor, but is nevertheless interesting because it introduces the shake. A Capriccio by Farini, published in 1627, is much more interesting, as we find varieties of bowing, instances of double-stopping and chords, although it does not make use of the G string at all. In 1649 we find Uccellini going up to the sixth position in his Canzon, and using a greater variety of bowing. Up to this date the violin was not used much as a solo instrument, it was with the Sonata, in its older forms, that it came into predominance.

As the Italians were the first to distinguish themselves both in violin composition and violin playing, so they also reigned supreme long after other nations began to turn their attention to such matters. To quote Dr. Perrin, "Corelli, Tartini, Viotti and Paganini, to mention the chief of them, cover between them a period of nearly 200 years, and during that period we have a host of other Italians as composers and violinists; the two Vitalis, Bassani, Torelli and Vivaldi, also Corelli's pupils, Sonus, Locatelli and Geminiani, whose compositions are still played at the present day through the careful editions of their works by such men as Alfred Mottet and Ferdinand David. In France, previous to Leclair, the only outstanding figure in violin composition was Lully, a contemporary and fellow-countryman of Corelli's, and a comparison of their works cannot but determine the fact that those of Corelli are the greater since those of Lully consist of simple dance movements. He is an instance of a man writing what the people wanted at the moment—pretty little tunes. In Leclair's music we find gracefulness and vivacity predominant, but looking at the sonatas for violin, and figured bass accompaniment, as exemplified by David, we see the influence of the Italian masters, and though they do not mark any great advance on the works of the Italians they are well worth playing."

In regard to solo violin compositions, it is interesting to note that not only were the first Sonatas written for strings, but also the Concerto, which owed its conception to Torelli. Handel was the first to leave, in his Concerto for Organ and Orchestra, a pause for the Organist to extemporize, thus anticipating the Cadenza which forms so important a feature of all Concertos. "I should like to say," said the lecturer, "that the custom of introducing a Cadenza was most probably originated by singers to show off the flexibility and compass of their voices. The instrumental Cadenza was designed rather as a means to display the performer's musicianship, since it deals with thematic material on which the composition is based. The vocal Cadenzas were usually mere flourishes. The original intention was for the performer to improvise the Cadenza at the actual performance, trusting to momentary inspiration. As time went on, the composer, finding that the soloist became less inclined to trust to his momentary exaltation to improvise a Cadenza and to prepare one beforehand, took the matter into his own hands and supplied his own Cadenzas, knowing that it should not be a mere vehicle for display, but contain a summary and appreciation of all that had gone before, and should be in a style consistent with

Most Remarkable Habitat Groups in the World.

SHOWS NATURAL HAUNTS.

Well Known Artists Have Painted the Backgrounds, Landscapes and Seascapes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The first unit of the California Academy of Sciences building plan, completed at a cost of $181,000, and which has just been dedicated and opened to the public, contains what are described as some of the most remarkable habitat groups of any museum in the world. These consist of a series of groups of the larger wild animal life of the state, the animals being shown in their natural environment, and on a scale never before attempted. The installation of these groups has been in progress for several months. A unique feature of the display is the panorama effect produced by painted backgrounds done so realistically that it is almost impossible to distinguish between the artificial and the real in the scenes.

One large exhibit, known as "A Glimpse of All California," shows birds, insects and animals in their natural haunts, from the high Sierras to the ocean from the north to the warm regions of Imperial valley. Several well known artists have done the backgrounds, landscapes and seascapes.

The exhibits consist chiefly of large habitat groups of California mammals and birds. In the California mammal hall, which is 180 feet long by 60 feet wide, are shown 13 species of the most important large California mammals; the San Joaquin valley elk, black tail deer, antelope, desert mountain sheep, leopard seal, California sea lion, Stellar's sea lion, mountain lion, black bear, coyote, striped skunk, and raccoon.

"These are undoubtedly the most wonderful groups showing wild life under natural environment that have ever been placed on exhibition anywhere in the world," said Dr. Barton Warren Evermann, director of the museum.

"The controlling thought running through the entire series of groups is their truthfulness to nature and their educational value," said Dr. Evermann, the effort having been made to make them of direct assistance in school work as well as education to the general public."

In addition to the natural history halls, the Fitzhugh-Lowe collection of Indian baskets, pottery and stone implements may be mentioned as among the important features of the museum's possessions. This collection occupies a half 180 feet long and 18 feet wide, contains more than 15,000 pieces or different objects, and is said to be the largest and most complete representation of American Indian basketry that has been made. The collection of gigantic tortoises is the largest that has been assembled, the next largest being that of the Hon. Walter Rothschild, of Thring, England. This collection numbers about 300 specimens representing nearly all the species known, some of which weigh between 500 and 600 pounds. The general collection of reptiles and amphibians contains more than 35,000 specimens and is the third largest in America. The collection of birds contains about 19,000 specimens, and is particularly rich in sea birds.

Among the important research collections of the academy are those of herpetology, ornithology and botany, the ethnological collection of William H. Fitzhugh.

The California Academy of Sciences, which was founded in 1853, is the oldest organization of the kind in California. The original endowment by James Lick now amounts to nearly $1,000,000. Dr. Barton Warren Evermann, who was connected for many years with the Natural History Museum and Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., is the curator of the institution. John Rowley, the taxidermist and naturalist, is curator of mammals and chief of exhibits.

KING'S COLLEGE POSITION.
At the annual meeting of the board of governors of King's College, Windsor, N.S., reports of different committees showed a very satisfactory state of affairs. The number of students is, of course, reduced but the work of the college is being pursued as usual and the financial situation was considered quite satisfactory.

The endowment fund showed an increase of about $9000 and visitors' fund an increase of a little more than $1,000. A deficit was carried forward, but this was to be expected owing to war conditions. Permission was given to the military authorities to use part of the college building as a hospital during the winter.

Describing the work of the French army, Lieut. Peckhoff said that the French army was a marvel, taken from any standpoint: "The whole is as a workshop," he said. "If one machine stops, others must stop also, but in this war things cannot stop; they must go." As an example he cited the case of a road 16 kilometers long which was built in a single day. This road was a necessity, and even though it seemed like an impossible task to build a road through ploughed fields in so short a time, there was no way of evading the difficulty. The task was accomplished by 16,000 men. That meant only a metre for each man. One here, the speaker continued, cannot estimate the great amount of energy, endurance and forethought this war calls for on the part of officers and men alike. "The great difference between men of the Allied Powers and the Germans lies in the morale. The Germans are not told what they are going to do. In the French army, before any attack is made the whole is explained. At what place the attack is to be made, how long it is estimated it will take, and even the time at which the advance is to be made. If the Germans are beautifully organized, as some people say they are, then we (the French) are miraculously organized, and that is why we are going to win."

the rest of the composition."

No one but a violinist in the audience fully appreciates the triumph of an impeccable rendering by a violinist of a virtuosic "tour de force." The same applies, of course, to the case of the singer or pianist. In a great many people's minds such efforts are regarded as on the same plane as the acrobatic and juggling feats of a vaudeville show, provided they are executed brilliantly. Regarded in this way as physical feats, they are just as wonderful and are worthy of our admiration, since they are the result of long, systematic and concentrated study.

To serve as illustrations of the various matter presented by the lecturer a number of selections were played as follows:

Purcell: Sonata in G minor has four movements. It is said to be the only Solo Violin Sonata written by Purcell, although he had written ten Sonatas for four parts. Historically speaking, his works were greatly in advance of his age (1658-1695).

Corelli: Part of a Sonata consisting of five movements.

Vivaldi: Chaconne (in varied form) arranged by David.

Lully: Gavotte, serving as a specimen of non-contrapuntal homophonic music.

Handel: An Aria from his Opera which is very like his Largo and shows his ability to write broadly with an easy flowing melody.

Tartini: Sonata in G.

Viotti: Part of Concerto in A minor.

More dignified in style than the music is the successor Vieuxtemps. One of the first Violin Concertos (using the word in the modern sense) which have survived to the present day.

Sporer: Portions of Concerto No. 8 in A Major. The excerpt played showed florid work in the recitative, also melodic beauty in the Aria which followed.

Vieuxtemps: Slow movement of Concerto.

Wienawski: Mazurka—a fair instance of the modern use of an old national dance.

The applause which greeted Dr. Perrin at the close of the lecture testified in an unmistakable manner that the subject had been dealt with in an interesting and instructive manner.

U. N. B. MAN WOUNDED.

Gunner John Morrison, of D-48 Battery in France, reported wounded, is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, and has been in the heavy fighting on the Somme for some weeks.

FOOTBALL STAR OVERSEAS.

Ward Pearson, famous football star during his career at the University of New Brunswick, and who achieved success as a school teacher in the Province and later as a lawyer in the West, has gone overseas with the Universities' Battalion.

BACK FROM THE FRONT.

Capt. Arthur L. Johnson, Med. '09, of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, is back in Canada on a ten-weeks' furlough from the front.

IS MUSKETRY INSTRUCTOR.

It is officially announced that Capt. Brouard H. T. McKenzie, Sc. '16, who went overseas with the 24th Battalion, was wounded, and has been invalided to Canada on leave. He has been appointed musketry instructor for military training in the province of New Brunswick. Capt. McKenzie is a native of Moncton, N.B., and attended the Royal Military College at Kingston before coming to McGill.

NAMED MEDICAL OFFICER.

Lieut.-Col. McKenzie, Forbes, Med. '98, has been appointed medical officer under the Military Hospitals Commission to take charge of its work in Montreal, Quebec, Lake Edward and Ste. Agathe.

MANDOLIN CLUB BEGINS.

The opening meeting of the McGill Mandolin Club will be held on Monday, Nov. 13th, at 7.30 p.m., at the Peate School of Music, 586 St. Catherine St. West, to elect officers, and discuss programme for the year. All men who can play the mandolin at all are requested to turn out. Excellent instruction will be provided.

The club had a successful and interesting season last year, and as good a programme is expected this year. The success of the club greatly depends upon the attendance at this first meeting.

WAS UNIVERSITY EMPLOYEE.

Pte. Richard Thomas Wright, of a Victoria Rifles Battalion which went overseas a year ago, is reported killed in action. He was, previous to enlistment, an employee of the University, and leaves a widow and five children, residing at 523 Alma street.

RUSHES AT U. OF K.

Class spirit broke loose one day last week at the University of Kansas to such an extent that the noise made by the students while indulging in some impromptu rushes and rallies forced professors to dismiss their classes. The campus was in a state of wild disorder from 9.30 o'clock in the morning until noon.

A mock court martial to illustrate some of the working principles of military law is the latest project of the Department of Military Science and Tactics in the University of Wisconsin.

YALE COACH WORKING HARD WITH VARSITY

Difficult Matter Picking Men to Fill Positions.

MUST DEVELOP RAPIDLY.

Squad Farther Advanced Than Last Year, but Much Hard Work Needed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—This is expected to be another strenuous day for the Yale varsity football squad, with all of the players who are expected to line up against Brown in the big bowl next Saturday afternoon being put through a fast scrimmage drill.

That the Yale team of 1916 is farther advanced to-day than was the case with the Yale team of 1915 at a corresponding date there is no denying, despite the fact that the situation is not quite as satisfactory to the coaches as was expected would be the case when the practice started.

Head Coach T. A. D. Jones has been handicapped quite a bit in his work. Not only has he been called upon to build up a new system of coaching, but he has been confronted by a decided lack of suitable candidates for the line positions as well as the backfield. When the practice began, several of the most promising candidates were unable to report, as they were with the Yale battery. This delayed work considerably at a very important time. In addition to this several promising candidates have been lost to the team either permanently or for a number of days at a time, which means that the development of the players and team is held back.

There seems to be considerable uncertainty as to who will be the first choice for the various positions when Yale takes the field for the first of her championship games a week from Saturday. This week's game with Brown is expected to be a hard one, and the coaches hope to get their final line on the various candidates and make their selection on the basis of what the men show Saturday.

Captain Black is one player who appears to be sure of his place in the line. He will be at guard. The centre position is very uncertain. Callahan was at first the first choice; but he has now been placed at right guard, and Hutchinson appears to be the leading candidate for centre. M. Smith, Vorys and Leisenring are also centre candidates.

Who will play the opposite guard to Captain Black is another question to be decided, although Callahan appears to be the leading candidate at the present time. Other players trying for the guard positions are Galt, Graham, Durfee, Zenger and Bridges.

The tackle positions are causing the coaches considerable concern. The loss of C. M. Sheldon, Jr., is greatly felt. Baldrige, substitute last year, is considered as pretty certain to play right tackle in the big games if in condition. Gates and Taft are the leading candidates for the other side of the line, with Fox also trying for one of the places.

Gates and Comerford appear to be the leading candidates for end; but Gates is also needed for tackle. Which position he will finally play will depend upon whether a suitable tackle can be found. If Taft or some other candidate develops into a satisfactory partner for Baldrige, Gates will start at left end. Moseley is the next best end to Gates, with Church, Schmidt and Lynch as other candidates.

E. T. Smith, La Roche and Van Nostrand are the candidates for quarterback, and the first named appears to be the most likely one to start the big games. He has good generalship and is a good individual player himself. Van Nostrand was the regular quarterback last year.

For halfback positions, Le Gore stands out as the leading star. He is in a class by himself here, and the Ellis expect him to do some remarkable work in the big games. Not only is he a brilliant rusher with the ball, but his punting is very good. Bingham is expected to win the other halfback position. He is one of the best defensive backs on the squad, and is also a good line plunger. Carey, Neville and Waite are other halfback candidates.

Jacques, Stuart and Braden are the leading candidates for fullback, and it looks as if the first-named would start in the Princeton game.

NATIONAL DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA, LIMITED.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

DEPARTMENT OF COLONIZATION, MINES AND FISHERIES.

The chief minerals of the Province of Quebec are Asbestos, Chromite, Copper, Iron, Gold, Molybdenite, Phosphate, Mica, Graphite, Ornamental and Building Stone, Clays, Etc.

The Mining Law gives absolute security of Title and is very favourable to the Prospector.

MINERS' CERTIFICATES.

First of all, obtain a miner's certificate from the Department in Quebec or from the nearest Agent. The price of this certificate is $10.00, and it is valid until the first of January following. This certificate gives the right to prospect on public lands and on private lands, on which the mineral rights belong to the Crown.

The holder of the certificate may stake mining claims to the extent of 200 acres.

WORKING CONDITIONS.

During the first six months following the staking of the claim, work on it must be performed to the extent of at least twenty-five days of eight hours.

SIX MONTHS AFTER STAKING.

At the expiration of six months from the date of the staking, the prospector, to retain his rights, must take out a mining license.

MINING LICENSE.

The mining license may cover 40 to 200 acres in unsurveyed territory. The price of this license is Fifty Cents an acre per year, and a fee of $10.00 on issue. It is valid for one year, and is renewable on the same terms, on producing an affidavit that during the year work has been performed to the extent of at least twenty-five days' labor on each forty acres.

MINING CONCESSION.

Notwithstanding the above, a mining concession may be acquired at any time at the rate of $5.00 an acre for SUPERIOR METALS, and $3.00 an acre for INFERIOR MINERALS.

The attention of prospectors is specially called to the territory in the North-Western part of the Province of Quebec, north of the height of land, where important mineralized belts are known to exist.

PROVINCIAL LABORATORY.

Special arrangements have been made with the COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY, L'AVAIL UNIVERSITY, 228 ST. DENIS STREET, MONTREAL, for the analysis of minerals at very reduced rates for the benefit of miners and prospectors in the Province of Quebec. The well equipped laboratories of this institution and its trained chemists ensure results of undoubted integrity and reliability.

The Bureau of Mines at Quebec will give all the information desired in connection with the mines and mineral resources of the Province, on application addressed to

HONORE MERCIER,
Minister of Colonization, Mines and Fisheries, Quebec.
